 June, 2013

Short & Sweet

Hi Everyone!

This month I thought it might be interesting to contrast two of my experiences.

First experience: For anyone who doesn't know, I am directionally challenged! A number of years ago I was supposed to meet my best friend at The Lilac Festival. I was happy to find a parking spot that was within walking distance of Highland Park. However, I soon realized that I was lost (I know, I know!) After noticing a house with only the screen door closed, I approached to ask for directions. It was perfect for me, because there was a dog inside at the door. The man in the house was vacuuming, so could not hear me at the door. I explained to the dog that I needed him (her) to get the "human" of the house. The dog and I had a rather strange conversation back and forth with words and barking! At first the man inside responded by just telling the dog to be quiet. I encouraged the dog to keep barking (who seemed to be enjoying the whole experience because his (her) tail was wagging really fast!) Eventually, the man came to the door, and he was rather shocked to see me on his porch praising his dog! He was able to give me directions, and I took full responsibility for the dog's vocalizing! I briefly told him what I had done, and then told his dog that he (she) was a really good dog! Yes, I did end up finding the festival and my friend, but my unique way of obtaining directions was my most memorable part of the day!

Second experience: I was wrong! Three little words that all people in Mensa have a difficult time admitting! I got a valuable life lesson today. Everyone makes mistakes, even Mensans. I typically have a very good memory, but not today. The problem came about because I could not trust the person I was dealing with.

I have always been overly protective with people. If I sense that someone is being taken advantage of I switch into "mother lion" mode! This particular situation involved a former violin student's family in addition to myself. The businessperson I was dealing with was dishonest, which set me on edge from the beginning of our transactions. Unfortunately, I did something I rarely do: I reacted instead of taking the time to be fully objective about the whole situation. I presumed to know things without checking all the facts. I was impolite, inflexible, and unfair. I of course apologized "out the wazoo" and later took full responsibility for our misunderstanding. I am still digesting the lessons from that big mud puddle.

The overall point from that experience was that even if another person IS being dishonest, disreputable, and believes that they can get away with anything (which he did), I am still in control of MY actions. Just because someone is choosing to be a crooked jerk doesn't mean that I have to join the offending party in their pool of waste!

Hope to see you soon,

Julie Stout

To All Young Mensa Members:

I am Madelyn MacLaughlin and would like to invite everyone, but especially our younger Mensans and family members, on a field trip to Wild Wings. I am an 11-year-old 6th grader and have noticed that there aren't many trips specifically for younger Mensans, so I decided to organize this one hoping to meet other local Mensa kids! Wild Wings hosts birds of prey that have been injured and cannot be released back into the wild. There is also a trail next to the Wild Wings building that you can walk on (Birdsong Trail) and birds will eat from your hand! You can purchase the birdseed on site for a nominal fee. Check out their Web site! Hope to see you there!

~ Madelyn MacLaughlin

PS – We're considering taking a short hike around Quaker Pond afterward right there in Mendon Ponds Park. Come with us; we'll decide together!

reMARK by Betsy Yvonne Mark, RVC3 – June, 2013

This is it! My Swan Song! My last hurrah! The end of an era! It's been quite a ride. Yes, this is my final column as Regional Vice Chairman for The Great Lakes and Ohio Valley Region 3 of American Mensa. Like a roller coaster, these past four years have had their ups and downs, turns and twists, ins and outs. Region 3 has acquired many new members and we've lost some very dear ones. Many groups have taken on the challenge of updating their By-Laws. All groups have had fabulous meetings and events and parties and many have hosted RGs, mini-RGs and LDWs. Through it all, it has been my distinct pleasure to have been your representative on the American Mensa Committee. I've met new friends and further cemented relationships with old friends in every one of Region 3's local groups as I was privileged to visit all of them. You are truly the very best of friends and family. Thank you. Thank you to all who volunteered and helped me, to all who volunteered to help your local group in any way, to all who attended any Mensa event, to all who read any Mensa newsletter or the Bulletin, to all who continue to be Mensans. You are wonderful people and I am honored to be associated with you. It has been an honor, a privilege and a pleasure. Thank you.

As of the submission date for this column, elections are still happening and we won't know who our new RVC3 will be until after June 1st. Please welcome Julia or John as s/he begins her/his new adventure. Without question, Region 3 will be well represented on the AMC.

SEMMantics XXXIV was wonderful – just like all Region 3 Regional Gatherings.

Our next RG (July 26-28) is "It's the End of the World as We Know It...and We Feel Fine" to be hosted by Columbus Area Mensa, whose blurb on-line in Mensa's calendar of events states: Join us for food, games, speakers and a pint at our pub called Milliways. All RG events in the hotel, 12th floor. Waterpark passes optional. Hotel will charge one night's room & tax (deposit) at time of reservation. $25 cancellation fee with 72 hours notice, forfeit deposit with less than 72 hours notice. Registration, including meals: until Jul. 1, $75; after Jul. 1, $80; Friday only, $30; Saturday only, $55; Kids 11-18, half price; 10 & under, free.
